Pays Tribute to the Memory of Mrs. Woodrow Wilson

United Daughters of the Confederacy Unanimously Adopt Resolutions Characterizing Mrs. Wilson as a Model For American Womanhood.

(By Associated Press.)

SAVANNAH, Ga., Nov. 11.—Tribute was paid here today by the general convention of the United Daughters of the Confederacy to the memory of Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, wife of the President.

Resolutions introduced by Mrs. James Britton Grant, of Jefferson City, Mo., and unanimously adopted characterized Mrs. Wilson as a model for American womanhood and as one to whom prominent position meant "not an exaltation of self, but an opportunity to be more useful and to help the greatest number."

The text of the resolutions adopted follows in part:

"If he lives most who thinks most, feels noblest, acts the best, then Mrs. Woodrow Wilson lived a life much longer than that counted by years, for her life was filled with all the dignity, grace and virtue that could be crowded into it. Prominent position meant to her, not an exaltation of self (she loved self least), but an opportunity to be more useful and to help the greatest number."

"She had a heart for humanity in which dwelt all that was pure, genuine and holy. Absolute loyalty was chief among her characteristics; her old friends were never forgotten and when she became 'the first lady in the land,' her home was always open to them as of old. Mrs. Wilson was a believer in the high destiny of womanhood and taught her daughters that only the true, the beautiful and the good was worth while."

"Mrs. Wilson entered into all the plans of her distinguished husband, to him she was a guiding star, pointing to all that was high and noble. . . . It has been said that Mrs. Woodrow Wilson gave her life for her country as surely as a soldier gives his on the field of battle, and as we, the Daughters of the Confederacy, honor the memory of those who served, and those who fell in the service of their country, so we will enshrine her in our heart of hearts, the brightest jewel of Southern womanhood."

Mrs. Wilson was born in Georgia and formerly lived in Savannah. She was not a member of the Daughters of the Confederacy, although eligible, her father having been a chaplain in the Confederate army.

Other resolutions adopted today were to the memory of Sumner A. Cunningham, of Nashville, Tenn., editor of The Confederate Veteran, and Mrs. C. N. Goodlett, also of Nashville, who was known as "the Mother of the United Daughters of the Confederacy."

Adoption of the memorial resolutions was followed by the reading of the reports of the general officers. Mrs. Daisy McLaurin Stevens, the president general, made her report at the morning session in which she recommended the raising of $5,000 for a window to be placed in the new American Red Cross building at Washington, which is planned as a memorial to the women of the war between the States.

The president general also recommended the appointment of a committee, on which North Carolina and Alabama shall have no representation, to determine definitely the designer of the Confederate flag.

It was understood tonight that Mrs. Stevens would be elected president general tomorrow. It has been the custom to allow the president general second term.

Nashville, Tenn., and San Francisco are the chief contenders for the 1915 convention. Selection of next year's meeting place will be made Friday.

A REDUCTION OF TWENTY PER CENT

Recommended by Committee in the Salary Limit of Minor League Clubs.

(By Associated Press.)

OMAHA, Neb., Nov. 11.—A reduction of twenty per cent in the salary limit of minor league clubs was recommended today by the committee on constitutional revision of National Association of Professional Baseball leagues. It was adopted, so far as it concerns class A and class B leagues. Leagues in class AA were permitted to revise salary lists as fitted their convenience and leagues in the C and D class were given until tomorrow to agree on a limit.

The committee's recommendation followed an address by Garry Herrman, chairman of the national commission, who declared organized baseball leagues should have salary limits in keeping with gate receipts.

Herrman told of his conferences with Federal league officials and declared that all his talks had been in an individual capacity and not as a representative either of the National commission or of the Cincinnati baseball club.

A schedule of salary limits, presented by Judge Kavanaugh, of Little Rock, chairman of the committee on constitutional revision, suggested the following limits:

Class A, $5,000 a month.
Class A, Southern association, $3,200; Western league, $2,800.
Class B, $2,000.
Class C, $1,200.
Class D, 1,000.

Because the Federal league had clubs in two American associations, city representatives of the league objected to their salary arrangements being made public, and were permitted to agree privately on what their limit should be.

The Canadian league has felt the war but officials said they expected to go through the season.

The Northwestern league also has been hit by the European war, it was said.

Several representatives of class C and D leagues declared they would be unable to exist with the proposed salary limitation. The case went over until tomorrow. Classes A and B made no protest and the limitations were accepted.

There is considerable discussion outside the convention of what may result from further conferences between members of the National commission and Federal league officials. It seemed to be the general impression that some changes would be made in the personnel of both the American association and Western league.

The board of arbitration tomorrow will give out a list of awards on claims of clubs and players.

Stand Together for Fair Settlement.

CHICAGO, Nov. 11.—The Federal league was organized on a major league basis and will continue as such under its own name, no matter what peace deal may be made with organized baseball, according to a statement tonight by James A. Gilmore, its president, who declared all the owners of the league still stood together for a fair settlement. Gilmore declared no member of the organization intended selling out to detriment to the Federal.

Protests Against Great Britain's Attitude

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11.—Senator Hughes, of New Jersey, laid before the state department today a protest from several big copper companies of his State against the attitude of Great Britain on shipments of copper to neutral countries.

The petition declares Great Britain had no right to interfere with cargoes moving between all countries. Restrictions such as Great Britain has placed on commerce, it says, will seriously threaten the copper industry of the United States.

After a quarrel with several passengers who teased her pet dog, Mrs. Petelle is accused of firing twice with an automatic pistol on a man whom she believed to be the ringleader of the group. Both bullets flew wild.

"I fired in the air merely to frighten the man," Mrs. Petelle declared.

MACON, Ga., Nov. 11.—Four brothers, members of the Boys' Corn Club of Georgia, this year raised 824 bushels of corn on four acres of land. Luther Aldred, of Pickens county, one of the brothers, today won the first prize at the State fair here which is annually offered to the boy obtaining the greatest yield from one acre. He produced 227 bushels.

Clarence Allred raised 220 bushels, Elmer 210 and Arthur 167, according to the announcement of the judges. Walker Lee Dunson, of Alexander City, Ala., holds the official national record with a yield of 232 bushels on one acre.

Tropical Countries About to Undergo Change In Population

The Great Valleys of the Amazon and the Congo Will Probably Produce All the Food Needed by the World If Settled By the White People, Is Opinion of Surgeon General W. C. Goigav, Who Rides the Panama Canal Zone of the Malaria.

(By Associated Press.)

RICHMOND, Va., Nov. 11.—Surgeon General W. C. Goigav, United States army, who rides the Panama Canal Zone of malaria, believes the tropical countries of the world are about to undergo a great change in population. "We are on the eve," he said, addressing the Southern Medical Association today, "of seeing the tropical zones settled by the white people of the Saxon race as we have it in the United States, because we know the white man can go there now. The great valleys of the Amazon and the Congo will probably produce all the food needed by the world, if they are settled by white people. The European war will further change social and economic conditions and will result in a vast emigration into the tropical countries."

Change Taking Place.

Colonel Gorgas said that malaria was the most important disease to be combated in the sanitation of the tropics and in the southern portion of the temperate zone. He has seen a wonderful change for the better in the past twelve years and believes that in a few years malaria will be much less widespread than it is now. Rather than general measures for fighting the disease, he advocates instruction of the individual in cleaning up his premises and making conditions sanitary.

Malaria-carrying mosquitoes. This was the general theme of the various physicians who spoke—that the rural population should be educated in the prevention of malaria which is so widespread in the South. Dr. H. B. Carter, of the United States public health service, attributed the increase of malaria-carrying mosquitoes in the South to the increase of lapped water, which he believes should be put under control of boards of health.

Others Speak.

Others who discussed malaria and its prevention were Dr. C. C. Bass, of New Orleans; L. O. Hard, of the Bureau of Entomology, Washington, and Dr. T. E. Wright, of Monroe, La.

Symposiums on blood diseases, hookworm, pellagra and surgery were held today and a large number of technical papers were read.

Tonight Rupert H. Blue, surgeon-general of the United States public health service, told the association of the anti-plague campaign in New Orleans; George H. Simons, general manager of the American Medical Association, of Chicago, discussed the work of the council on pharmacy and chemistry, and W. L. Rodman, president of the American Medical Association, of Philadelphia, delivered an address on cancer.

General Blue, after reviewing his work against bubonic plague said that every seaport should take precautionary measures as no one can tell where or when the plague may develop.

Denouncing the use of both radium and the X-ray as treatment for cancer, Dr. Rodman declared that both were more harmful than beneficial. He said that no one had the right to subject a patient with cancer to the threat to any treatment but that of surgical removal. He had, he said, never seen a case cured of either radium or the X-ray, and his experience has been that every case is made worse. He denounced their use as "running after false gods when we give up surgical operations for these new fads."

SHOULD BE GIVEN THE BALLOT TO EFFECT HUMANITARIAN REFORMS

fect in lowering men's wages. Men workers, for their own advancement, should help women get the vote to enable them to fight for better conditions and prepare laws.

Women Better Qualified.

The speaker asserted that women are better qualified than men to decide the housing problems that confront big industrial centers and argued they should be given the ballot to effect humanitarian reforms.

"But aside from domestic affairs," she asserted, "women are taking an increasing interest in international affairs. The time has passed when men have a monopoly in understanding international questions. The European war is an instance. Woman's experience in the present conflict shows it is neither safe nor just to deprive them of the vote, because they have to bear the hardships of a war which they had no part in bringing on and which they had no power to avert."

Adding England in War.

"While you women are fighting for suffrage here, the suffragettes of England are bending their efforts to aid their country in the terrible war. We suffragettes are patriotic, but we also believe our country is right."

"Woman suffrage now is an established principle so far as the United States is concerned," declared Miss Pankhurst in closing. "With the western half of the country already under the suffrage banner, it is impossible for any force to prevent the cause spreading throughout the entire country. You have two methods for gaining the ballot—through amendment of the state and the federal constitutions. I understand the South prefers the state's rights plan, on lines suited to local needs."

Appeal to Southern Women.

"But I wish to appeal to you Southern women to get the vote quickly, for if the Southern States do not grant the ballot to women through state action, they will find that suffrage will be granted them through a federal amendment and the Southern States will be obliged to accept."

Miss Mary Johnston, of Virginia, briefly discussed the progress of the suffrage movement in the South and urged the need of vigorous action by the women of the country to follow up the victories gained in the recent election.

Delegates to Nashville. Many of the delegates to the Southern conference departed late tonight for Nashville, to attend the annual convention of the National American Woman Suffrage Association, which opens there tomorrow.

At the final business session late today the conference allowed to die in committee the proposed declaration of principles. Two paragraphs of this declaration—one affirming that suffrage is a state's right question and the other calling upon the Democratic party to include a woman suffrage plank in its next national platform—aroused spirited opposition.

Elected Officers.

Officers elected by the conference, in addition to Miss Gordon, include: Vice President at Large—Miss Laura Clay, Lexington, Ky. Secretaries—Mrs. John B. Parker, New Orleans, and Mrs. Nellie N. Somerville, Greenville, Miss. Treasurer—Mrs. H. B. Bartlett, Louisiana.

Auditors—Mrs. C. E. Ellicott, Maryland, and Mrs. D. P. Montague, Tennessee.

Among state vice presidents were: North Carolina—Mrs. Archibald Henderson.

South Carolina—Mrs. M. T. Coleman, Abbeville.

Virginia—Mrs. John H. Lewis. Honorary Vice Presidents—Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont, New York; Miss Mary Johnston, Virginia; Mrs. Helen Gardner, Washington, D. C.

PEACE BETWEEN ASSOCIATIONS AND CONGRESSIONAL UNION

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Nov. 11.—Delegates to the annual convention of the National American Women's Suffrage Association, which meets here tomorrow, caucused here tonight and prepared a compromise slate of officers to be elected during the convention. Leaders among the delegates stated after the caucus that the action tonight presaged peace between the Association and the congressional union. The slate predicated upon the willingness.

Mrs. Stanley McCormick, of Chicago, chairman of the credentials committee, announced tonight that the Crozier-French delegation from the Tennessee association would be seated in the convention over the McCormick delegation. This decision and the holding of the caucus completed the preliminary work of the association. The first regular session of the convention will be held tomorrow when the delegates will be welcomed by Governor Ben W. Hooper and Mayor Hilary E. Howe.

Prominent suffragists from every State in the union have already arrived.

SATISFACTORY.

A Bomb Explosion Damages Court House

(By Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, Nov. 11.—A bomb exploded alongside the Bronx county court house late tonight did much damage to the building. The shock was felt blocks away.

The police believe the bomb was intended for County Judge Louis D.

Gibbs, who has presided recently in the cases of foreigners convicted on "white slave" charges. This opinion also was expressed by Judge Gibbs, who at the time of the explosion was preparing to leave his chambers in the building.

The judge was shaken up but escaped injury.

DOES ADVERTISING IN THE DAILY INTELLIGENCER PAY?

Among the many progressive and aggressive business men of Anderson who are materially assisting their own business interests by using the Daily Intelligencer DAILY is Dr. Israelson, the Optometrist, on South Main who, being asked whether his advertising in the Daily Intelligencer paid him or not, answered in no uncertain manner:—"It certainly has, and is paying me right along; just the other day two ladies from Pendleton came in here, one of them saying: 'Is this Dr. Israelson? Well, I saw this ad in the Daily Intelligencer and I came to you to get you to fit my glasses.' (And she had actually cut the advertisement out of the Intelligencer and brought it along with her.)"

"That is only one instance of the pulling power of my advertising in the Daily Intelligencer."

There are others, too, who being asked for an expression about their advertising, would testify as Dr. Israelson.
